

THRILLIST

LONDON

LONDON GETS BEEFED UP

Three fresh burger spots to sate your cow-cravings

1 PATTY & BUN

Former popup burger stars lay roots in Marylebone

After popping up/ popping trouser buttons all over the place, P&B's now gone permanent, sling their signature list of beef-wiches alongside rum punches, and choc ices. Yes, choc ices. Read about those, and "The Lambshank Redemption", right here.

2 BRGR

Beirut burgers in Soho

Hailing from, of all places, Lebanon, BRGR's moved from the Middle East to the middle of London, where the Soho shop serves up custom blended patties they're so proud of, they're literally calling them "Masterpieces". Check out this abundance of burger/dearth of modesty

3 BURGER & SHAKE

The Bloomsbury set get a classic diner

Beneath a pressed tin ceiling, the masters at Bloomsbury's newest press 6oz beef or pork patties before slathering them in sauerkraut. Discover lobster rolls & boozy shakes right this way

➔ Check out all three spots in their full glory right here

VIDEO FRIDAY

THE NEWMAN STREET TAVERN

A Fitzrovia pub that brings the class

HAWKSMOOR AIR STREET

A steakhouse -- for seafood

GARUFIN

Argentinian that goes beyond the steak

